

ABOUT US

Why we do what we do...

My Home Research is a cadre of professional folks, young and old, who have many combined years of experience in buying homes, selling our homes, selecting the right schools, choosing the right agents and neighborhoods... and making too many mistakes along the way. We just wanted to create a place where we can help you make fewer mistakes.

We are proud of MyHomeResearch.com and we love the non-intrusive way you can research your next home. Free to choose a lifestyle that is unique to you in an ecosystem that is non-offensive and advertising free. (How many #1 agent/brokers can there be, right?)

We're not an agency, consultancy or other vendor seeking your business. We're not even available for private research -- all our research is published for the entire My Home Research community for the benefit of all. Our goal: to give you, the home buyers and/or sellers of the world the listings, the checklists, and the inspiration to research and discover your new home. We hope to deliver that with excellence and in a manner that allows you to find your lifestyle and home of your dreams.

We will whenever you'd like us to, hook you up with the most knowledgeable and successful real estate professional brokers or mortgage officers in your area. We make every attempt to match you perfectly to the right level of sweetness, happiness, bull-doggedness (wow isn't that a cool word), artist, deal makers... well you get the picture. It's very tough to find THE ONE who really wants to help you while keeping your goals and objectives in mind, not theirs. But we have found the gems that actually become close friends that continue long after you've moved in to your magnificent home... but that's your choice. We'd love to help you, just let us know.
